5 Words:

Hello, my name is Paige. The 5 words I chose are: hardworking, smart, kind, courageous, and optimistic. I am a hardworking mother of one son, Ralph. I want the best for him, even though he is different than other kids. I am smart with people and can help them understand each other. I like being kind to those around me, no matter what their circumstances. It takes a lot of courage to be a single mom, but I am here to be the best mom I can be. I am optimistic and look at life from a cheerful perspective. I believe in the good of people.

2 Things I like:

Two things that I like about my personality are my courage and my optimism. I don't give up easily, and that means I will eventually succeed. My optimistic personality helps me to see the good all around me and to have hope for the future. Even if things are not easy right now, I can still see the things that are positive and I like that about myself.

A Challenge:

Something that is a challenge for me is to know when to trust people. I'm afraid that they will hurt me or my son, so I am not sure I want to let them into my life or heart. I want to change this, at least a little, because if I don't, I'm not sure how I can be a good example to my son. And I am not sure how to live without people. This is a challenge, but I'm going to work on it!
